Bachelor of Child & Youth Care

Child Protection Specialization

The School of Child and Youth Care prepares you to provide holistic and supportive services to enhance the lives of vulnerable children, youth, families and their communities. Those students who have completed the Child Protection Specialization courses are among the best prepared in child welfare practice to apply for employment in either government or non-profit agencies. The BC Ministry of Children and Family Development website is a valuable resource for learning more about child protection services and job opportunities: <http://www.gov.bc.ca/mcf>

For Child Protection Specialization students, the fourth year practicum CYC 410 must be done in a BC Ministry of Children and Family Development child protection office, or delegated First Nations child welfare agency (4.5 credits). Please refer to the UVic Calendar for current course requirements in this specialization.

Application Deadline
February 28

Block Credit

Certificates or diplomas in ECE, youth justice, family studies, social work, child and youth worker programs or a number of human service diplomas may be eligible for block credit into the BCYC program.
