

University of Victoria

Greek & Roman
Studies

Greek and Roman Studies 328: Myth and Theory

Fall 2024

MTh 11:30-a.m.-12:50 p.m.

Professor Laurel Bowman

GRS 328 is an introduction to the interpretation of Greek and Roman myth. The course surveys the major schools of interpretation, from ritualist to structuralist to feminist and beyond.

- learn different theoretical and methodological approaches to myth
- think critically about the function and interpretation of myth
- read Greek and Roman myths in translation

No prerequisites. GRS 200 recommended. Cross-listed as RCS 328.