

Social Sciences Field Course Student Support Fund
GUIDELINES and APPLICATION
2018-2019 (revised July 2018)

Program Objectives

The Social Sciences Field Course Student Support Fund has been developed to enhance students' access to experiential learning opportunities. The intent of this fund is to defray some of the supplementary costs (not tuition fees) of Social Sciences field courses for students with financial need. Students can receive support from this fund a maximum of once per academic year.

Field Course Definition

A field course is an applied course of study that takes place outside the classroom, usually off campus. It is typically delivered within a compressed time-frame.

Eligibility Requirements

- Declared major in Social Sciences
- Demonstrated financial need
- Good academic standing with a minimum cumulative GPA of 4.0
- Not yet received support from this fund for this academic year.

Evaluation Criteria and Process

Applications will be evaluated by the Social Sciences Associate Dean, Undergraduate Studies and the Social Sciences Community Engaged Learning Coordinator who will make recommendations to the Dean. The amount of costs covered will depend on the number of applicants, the level of need portrayed by the applicant, and the cost of the field course.

Criteria for evaluation are: 1) financial need (75%); and 2) contribution of the field course to the student's academic and career goals (25%). Included within the second criteria will be special consideration for students for whom this is their first field course experience.

Social Sciences field course fees range from $300-$6000. To maximize the number of students who benefit from this fund, fewer awards will be allocated to students who are submitting this application for a field course with high-range supplementary costs.

Students will be notified of the outcome of their application one week after the submission deadline. Funds will be applied directly to the cost of field course fees through the applicant's department.

Application Submission Dates

Applications for this fund are accepted on a rolling basis, but are due no later than one week after the application deadline for the chosen field course. For example, if your field course application is due March 3, then your application to the SOSC FCSSF would be due no later than March 10. Decisions would then be shared by March 17.

Application Instructions

Applicants must complete all sections on the application form. Applications and all requested attachments must be submitted by email to Rhianna Nagel, Social Sciences Community-Engaged Learning Coordinator, sosccel@uvic.ca, 250-472-5667. Include your name and field course title in the title of your application (e.g. JaneSmith_CubaFieldSchool). Late applications will not be accepted.

Contact Information

Direct all inquiries related to this fund to Rhianna Nagel, Social Sciences Community-Engaged Learning Coordinator, sosccel@uvic.ca, 250-472-5667.

Due to the availability of field course funds directly from Environmental Studies (ES), ES students participating in ES field courses are not eligible to apply to the Social Sciences Field Course Student Support Fund. If you are an ES student seeking support for an ES field course, please apply to the Lorene Kennedy award (contact the ES office for more information). ES students can access this fund for field courses in other units and students from other units can access this fund for ES field courses.
