

Inba Kehoe began her professional career as a teacher in Singapore. She migrated to Canada in 1987 and later pursued the study of library and informational science at the University of Toronto. Formerly the Business, Economics and Public Administration liaison Librarian at UVic Libraries, Inba is currently the Head, Scholarly Communications Librarian and Copyright Officer. She is slated to complete her PhD in April 2024. She works very closely with various stakeholders on campus to advance the dissemination of scholarship and advancing the Libraries' advocacy efforts around open access and open education. Over the years, Inba has served on several Senate, Library and University committees, including national committees (CARL) on open access and open education. Inba currently Co-Chairs the Open Scholarship WG. Additionally, Inba was the President of the British Columbia Library Association, between 2006-07