Chris Sheaff currently works for Service Canada as a Benefits Officer where he administers applications for Old Age Security and the Guaranteed Income Supplement. He likes this job because it gives him a lot of power to help people. He has formerly worked in administration for the Department of Art History & Visual Studies at UVic. Previously he has worked for Island Health, the District of Oak Bay, the BC Government, Toronto Metropolitan University, Our Place Society, Cool Aid Society, Together Against Poverty Society, The Canadian Centre for Management Development, The Bateman Foundation, and the United Nations in communications and administrative roles. He has a bachelor's degree in History with distinction from the University of Victoria, a certificate in Law from Queen's University, and is currently completing a master's degree in Communications and Culture from Toronto Metropolitan University. He hopes to start an MPA at UVic next fall, but he has to get accepted first. His brother is a graduate of HINF and UVic Law, his mother was a Continuing Studies graduate, and his father is a former instructor and Coop Coordinator with Health Information Science, so the university has played a prominent role in his own life and the life of his family. In his free time he studies and performs improv with Garden City Improv.
